Module 6.2 Inspiration

Matthew has been an inspiration to me because of how whenever I would get assistance from him on something that I was stuck on, he is very enthusiastic. Him and I love programming and that inspires me to stick with something that interests me. He also inspires me to try and succeed at what I do as much as possible to prepare for a career in the real world after college. Whenever I would get help from him, he lives up to the phrase "teamwork makes the dream work" because of how him and I would try to figure out solutions to problems together. Another thing is to try out the work first or put in the effort to ask questions and include some other information rather than being silent and not trying to give a sliver of effort at all. Matthew inspires me to also not leave things to do at the very last minute when it could be done hours or a day or two prior before a deadline. Care for the time of others and be respectful of the time that people take out of their day. For example, if you need assistance on a task, send as much of the details as possible so that way you can prepare beforehand, and time will not be lost. Last but not least, communicate as clearly as you can so that way you can have a good learning experience rather than a bad one where you feel like you have not learned anything on that particular day.

Subject Bio

       The person I have interviewed is Matthew Krutsick. Matthew Krutsick was born on December 28th, 1988 in Allentown, Pennsylvania. Matthews favorite hobbies are offroading because of his love for Jeeps and working on them, programming because he took a programming class and when he was introduced to the "hello world" example that was what sparked his interest and snowboarding because he was intrigued by professional athletes like Shaun White, and he picked it up quickly and has no interest in skiing. His goals are he graduated from Bloomsburg University, be successful, and travel the world. He looks up to Elon Musk as his role model. His favorite fast food eatery is Mcdonalds. The best vacation that he has been on was to the country of Mexico, because it was for his honeymoon. His biggest pet peeve is being on time because it's embarrassing to be late. His biggest accomplishment was graduating from Bloomsburg University in computer science in 2011. If Matthew could go back in time, he would travel to the year 1400 because he is a fan of the medieval times. The number one thing that he will never do ever again is bridge jump into a river. Matthews most favorite movie of all time is Shawshank Redemption because it had a great storyline and how it would keep you on your toes because of the plot twists. The funniest thing he has ever seen is Dave Chapelle doing stand up comedy. Finally, the craziest thing that Matthew has ever done was bridge jumping when he was in college.
